President Will Proclaim Alaska 49th State Today

By FRANK W. VAILLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower proclaimed Alaska the 49th state today, pushing the boundaries of the United States within sight of Russian soil.

At the same time, the new 40-star flag will be unveiled.

Signing of the presidential proclamation at the White House at noon today was timed to coincide with expiration of the 85th Congress.

Several proposed flag designs were presented to the President Friday at his Gettysburg farm for his final decision. The public and organizations had submitted almost 2,000 suggestions.

The new flag becomes official next July 4. Officials have said it would be technically incorrect to display the new flag before then, although there will be no penalty for such use.

Admission of Alaska as the first new state since 1912 marks the formal end of the territorial status. Alaska has held since 1906. It gives Alaskans control of their government for the first time, as well as a voting representation in Congress.

Sens. elect E. L. (Bob) Bartlett and Ernest Gruening and Rep. elect Ralph J. Rivers will take their oath of office when the 86th Congress meets Wednesday. All three are Democrats.

Alaska's entry brings into the union a rich store of timber, mineral and other resources. Its area is one-fifth that of its 48 sister states and more than twice that of Texas.

With an estimated 212,000 population — smallest of any state — Alaska also will add a new ingredient to the nation's politics. In 1960, Alaskans for the first time will cast three electoral votes for president.

Politically, the new state government will be solidly Democratic.

Alaska's quest for statehood has gone on since 1916—nearly half the period it has spent under the U.S. flag since its purchase from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000.

World Sugar Futures in Sharp Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—World sugar

futures dropped sharply today in heavy trading following the collapse of the Batista government in Cuba.

March delivery was quoted in early dealings at 3.19 to 3.20 cents a pound, down between .36 and .47 of a cent. The daily limit of change is 50 of a cent.

January delivery, for which no daily limit, was quoted at 2.99 bid, off .37 of a cent.

Sugar industry sources reported that if the Cuban civil war is nearing an end, prospects are that Cuba will produce most of the 5,000,000 Spanish long tons of sugar, as recommended last week by the Cuban Sugar Institute.

In preparing for the 1959 sugar production, Cuba has about one month in which to get back to normal. In that time, all of the off-season repairs to mills, machines and equipment for harvesting and grinding the cane must be made.

In recent weeks, world sugar advanced 30 to 40 of a cent a pound on the prospect that if fighting continued, Cuba would not be able to make more than 4,000,000 tons of sugar.

Traders said today's selling was based on the assumption that the two-year Cuban revolt is coming to an end. So the bulk of Cuban crop will be coming to market, thus increasing the world supply.

A large crop would mean lower prices.

Other major sugar suppliers to the United States are the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

Baton Rouge, Magic Circle Tour of This Week, Is Picture of Industrial South

BEAUTY, ROMANCE AND HISTORY combine to make memorable the Magic Circle tour of Baton Rouge and the Acadian country. After viewing the spectacular skyscraper Capitol and visiting Louisiana State University campus, your route leads across the Mississippi through Opelousas, the yam capital; Lafayette, city of flowers; Breau Bridge, gourmet's haven. South is the story-book town of St. Martinville and Longfellow-Evangeline State Park. Another fascinating Magic Circle trip is north of Baton Rouge to Audubon Memorial State Park, where the famed painter began his career.

Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of suggested highway tour maps which Hope Star will publish on a weekly basis. The series will cover the South and the Southwest during the winter months, and the Northern sections in the spring. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

which center around the grave of Huey P. Long. The tour is by a bronze statue of the late governor, which is mounted on a snow-white marble monolith, sculptured to depict his avowed compassion for the common man.

To make possible this new Capitol, the University was bodily moved to its present 4,725 acre suburban location. You feel welcome and expected when you visit this campus; there even is an attractive folder, with a map guide to the 60 unorthodox buildings. Two huge grass carpeted knobs always attract attention; they will tell you that these are ancient Indian burial mounds. And then there is Tiger Stadium where sports writers are whisked up to luxury-equipped press boxes via a gleaming outdoor elevator shaft. The high arched portals under the stadium, waste space in other football temples, has been filled in like a honeycomb with dormitory rooms for 1,500 men students.

To Cajun Land

The Observation Tower of the State Capitol affords a topographical view of "Ole Man River," the west boundary of the city, and of the mighty 250-foot high span that will take you across the Mississippi to start your Magic Circle tour of the Cajun country of beauty and bayous.

Much of the trip west of the yam capital of Opelousas, and then south to Lafayette, city of flowers, is through a serene, agricultural countryside whose back roads lead to hunting, fishing and old Colonial homes.

Then you leave the beaten path for Breau Bridge, and a land of tranquility, gourmet food and innate hospitality, typical of the Acadians who came as exiles from Nova Scotia in 1755. Plan to be in Breau Bridge at mealtime, for this French-speaking community is famed for a delicacy known as "Crawfish Etouffee."

Thirteen miles south (State 31) is the storybook town of St. Martinville, highlight of any trip into the Bayou Teche country. Here is the true setting of Longfellow's immortal, romantic poem "Evangeline," here is a town where time is passing gracefully without bustle and parking meters. The people are gracious to outsiders, and like to tell of their history, traditions and shrines.

There always is a place to park on the shaded town square where, since 1765, life has revolved around beloved St. Martin Church. We were fortunate to meet one of the parishioners who, with quiet pride, guided us through this lovely old church with its paintings of "St. Martin and the Beggar" above the altar, and the Gravelle de Lourdes, an 1893 reproduction of the French shrine. The baptismal font came from Louis XVI.

Back of the church is a tiny cemetery, graced by the Evangeline Monument to mark the grave of Longfellow's heroine who, in real life, was Emmeline Labiche. Two blocks away, at the end of Port Street, is the famed Evangeline Oaks. The poem's heroine pined under the moss-hung branches of this giant; it also marks the original Bayou Teche landing place of the Acadians in St. Martinville.

U. S. Acts to Avoid Security Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government

acted today to avoid a Supreme Court showdown over the right of government and defense plant workers to know and be confronted by their accusers in security cases.

It did so by clearing Charles Allen Taylor, whose case is before the Supreme Court, for access to secret defense information.

Taylor was fired from his job as a tool maker at Bell Aircraft Corp., Buffalo, N.Y., after the industrial personnel security review board of the Defense Department revoked his security clearance.

The board, on the basis of information supplied by six unidentified informants found that Taylor in 1942 and 1943 had been a member, paid dues to, and held a membership card in the Communist Party.

Taylor, who made a categorical denial of the charges, demanded to know the identity of his accusers.

The government has steadfastly contended that the right to be confronted by accusers, which applies in criminal cases, does not apply in security cases involving government and defense plant workers.

Spa Hospital Appears to Be Settled

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in several years it appears Congress will be spared a fight in 1959 over the question of closing Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark.

Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.), long a champion of the hospital, said today a program now is being worked out under which the hospital will be utilized in a rehabilitation program.

For several years the Army has sought to close the big hospital, contending it is not needed. But Norrell and Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), have blocked every Army attempt to close it.

Norrell said today that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has become interested in taking over the hospital for use in a rehabilitation program and that the move has promises of working out.

A survey has been made for the department, he said, and a preliminary program mapped under which the hospital can be utilized.

The plan, which Norrell said is acceptable to the local interests, would involve transfer of the hospital from the Army to HEW. Congress then would appropriate approximately one million dollars to HEW to help get the rehabilitation program started at Army-Navy Hospital.

This is approximately the amount Congress has voted each year for the Army to operate the facility.

In a few years, Norrell said, the hospital would become self-supporting.

If this works out as hoped, he said, "we can quit fighting over Army-Navy hospital."

Russian Rocket Hurtles Toward The Moon Today

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP) — A huge Russian rocket hurtled toward the moon today. The Soviet Union said it would reach the vicinity of the moon at 7 a. m. Sunday, Moscow time (11 p. m. EST tonight).

There was no indication whether the rocket was supposed to hit the moon, circle it, taking pictures and scientific measurements, or go on just toward the sun.

But the Soviet government said it will prepare to put men on the moon in a future expedition. From there flights further into space can be launched, it said.

The rocket that raised these Red hopes had already gone farther than the best of four unsuccessful U.S. attempts to reach the moon, according to figures of Moscow Radio.

A broadcast said the rocket was 108,000 miles above the earth and climbing on course more than nine hours after launching. That was the farthest a man-made object had ever been sent.

The 85-pound U.S. Air Force moon probe Pioneer I soared 71,300 miles before errors of launching angle and propulsion speed caused it to fall back.

The moon will be about 219,000 miles from the earth at the time the Soviet government says its rocket will get there.

The Russian "cosmic ship" weighs about 3,290 pounds without fuel. The Russians have long talked about setting up space stations in orbit around the earth as the launching point for travels farther into the solar system. The weight of their moon rocket indicates they can now send up a vehicle large enough to carry a man.

But the government did not specify when it would set up an expedition to the moon. No details of the preparations were given.

Even before the rocket had time to leave the earth's atmosphere, the government proclaimed it "the first successful interplanetary flight."

They described the space device as a multistage rocket with a Soviet flag flying from the legend "U.S.S.R., January 1959" in the nose.

There was no mention of the overall weight, including the first stages that burned out and dropped off to allow the 3,290-pound final stage to ride on through space. The space vehicle was reported to contain 700 pounds of instruments. Its dimensions were not given.

It also carried special equipment to create the sodium cloud of an artificial comet, Moscow Radio said.

Without specifying where it took off, the rocket was reported to have flashed eastward across the Soviet Union, climbed above the Hawaiian Islands and was moving away from the earth over the Pacific Ocean.

Filibuster Foes Argue for Change

By JOHN H. AVERILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foes of the Senate's filibuster rule contended today that those who want it retained would bind the Senate to a system "enacted by men long since dead or retired."

A bipartisan Senate group expressed this idea Thursday in a brief designed to lay the legal groundwork for their fight to curp filibusters when Congress convenes next Wednesday.

The group said: "The suggestion that rules enacted by men long since dead or retired be the basis of the Senate of the 86th Congress from adopting its own rules is contrary to the very spirit of democracy."

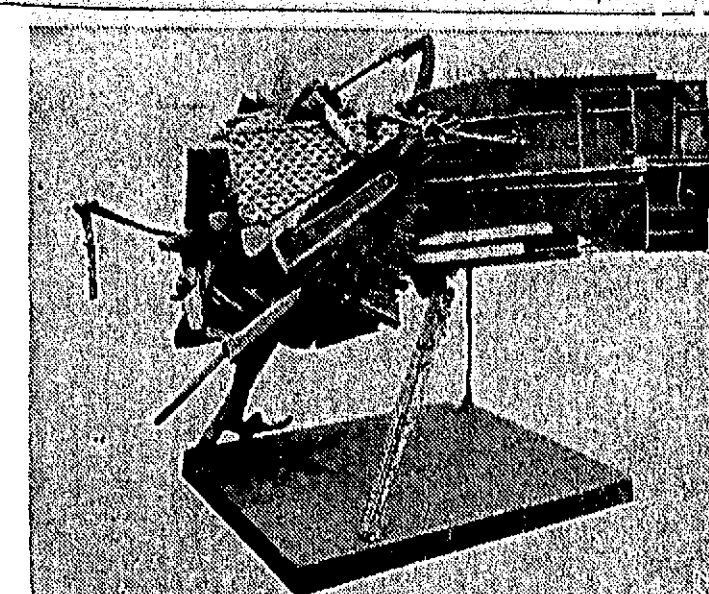

This was a reference to arguments by opponents of a rule change that since only one-third of the Senate membership is elected every two years, the Senate is a continuing body with rules carrying over from one Congress to the next.

This argument is a major key to success or failure of the pending fight to water down Senate Rule 22, which requires the vote of two-thirds of the entire membership to halt prolonged debate and bring an issue to a vote.

Once the Senate is in session a proposal to change the rules is subject itself to unlimited debate and thus can be doomed from the start.

The brief was submitted to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Senate's presiding officer, by Sens. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.).

They said they wanted to provide Nixon with their major legal arguments in the event he is called on to give a ruling.

Fortunately GOC Was Never Needed But Was Always Ready

By MARY ANITA LASETER

According to the Associated Press, the Air Force has announced that the Ground Observer Corps will disband January 31. The reason: The human eye cannot keep up with requirements of the jet and missile age.

And those requirements resulting from scientific developments are now being met by new automatic equipment which can collect and interpret scientific data faster than the G.O.C. The members of the Corps are on a stand-by basis now, but they will be replaced by radar entirely, February 1.

When it was realized how important it was for us to have a Ground Observer Corps, the Veterans of Foreign Wars asked Doug Jester, a veteran of the U. S. Air Force in Korea, to organize a local post of the G.O.C. That was in August of 1955.

Since that time, Mr. Jester, the post supervisor, and Mrs. Jester, the chief observer, have trained between 75 and 80 volunteer plane spotters. In February, 1958, they organized a Teenage Ground Observer Corps. In less than a year, about 40 volunteers have been trained in TAGO.

These boys and girls, men and women who made up the G.O.C., realized that when thousands of lives are at stake — no safety precaution is too much trouble. They saw that it was within their power to help prevent an enemy air attack by becoming volunteer plane spotters. So they did. "Look — listen — and live" became their motto when they joined "Sky-watch," a branch of Civil Defense.

The local G.O.C. met twice a month, night, besides study and work, they had social gatherings as well. But they kept in mind that the chief function of the G.O.C. was the serious business of protecting the lives of you and me and ourselves from enemy air attack.

Fortunately, their warning was never needed, but the fact they were prepared might have been one reason why. We don't expect fires to occur, but we are cautious to prevent them. By the same token, the G.O.C. has been in operation, patterned after the British Intelligence Corps of World War II.

With the G.O.C. volunteers needed only on a stand-by basis now, many local members have gone into other phases of Civil Defense work. Their training in the Ground Observer Corps will prove helpful in their work as volunteer firemen, volunteer policemen, in emergency mass feeding, standard first aid, or any other Civil Defense training.

The Jesters aren't jesting when they extend a heartfelt Thank You to all the G.O.C. members who have worked in the local post. They appreciate the helpful co-operation shown the local organization. Formal appreciation has been expressed by the Chief of Staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining of the U. S. Air Force.

As grateful citizens of this community, may we also say Thank You for a job well done.

Paragould Loses One of Judges

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—After

two months of being a city with many municipal judges, Paragould was back to normal today with only one.

The number was cut to the usual quota yesterday when John C. Watkins was sworn into office and L.V. Rhine said he was willing to give up the post.

The men had been involved in a dispute since the Nov. 4 general election over who was legally entitled to the post.

Watkins won the election but Rhine, who had been appointed by the City Council to fill an unexpired term refused to give up the office.

With the arrival of the new year, Rhine stepped down, declared that his appointment had expired and said Watkins was welcome to the job.

Castro's Forces Hold Complete Control In Cuba

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA (AP) — The Capital wailed tensely today for the arrival of Fidel Castro. The rebel leader has announced plans for a triumphal march to Havana from his headquarters in Santiago at the other end of Cuba.

Castro's forces now completely control Cuba, Castro said in a broadcast Friday night he would be leaving for Havana shortly but did not say when.

Indications were that he would arrive shortly with his man for provisional president, Manuel Urrutia, and install him in office.

The rebels came out of the hills Friday night and assumed control of all army garrisons, government buildings and police stations in westernmost Pinar Del Rio province.

A fierce and bloody battle between rebel tanks and disarmed Batista followers accompanied the occupation of Havana by Castro followers Friday. More than 40 men were believed dead and estimates of the wounded ran to 450.

Gunfire was heard in various sections of Havana during the night. Bands of gun-toting rebel youths roamed the city hunting enemies of Castro and claiming control of sections of this city of 1 million persons.

Some 600 of Castro's top fighting men arrived in Havana before dawn from Las Villas province. They were led by Ernesto Guevara, an Argentine medical doctor who was one of Castro's top lieutenants in the commander in the crucial battle of Santa Clara.

Although a general strike called by the rebels until Urrutia takes over is only 48 hours old, food is already in short supply. Some grocery stores were broken into and looted during the night in central Havana. Police were rushed to the scenes to break up raids.

Unless the strike ends and there is a halt to the violence arising out of the political situation, bloody riots may also develop.

Two rebels were shot dead Friday night near the Hilton Hotel and other near the University of Havana.

Some areas of the fashionable West Side were blocked off and barricaded. Most foreigners stayed inside hotels, where the food supplies began to run low.

Three Escape From Jail in Missouri

GALENA, Mo. (AP) — Three men broke out of the Stone County jail early today and escaped in a car driven by an accomplice.

They first ripped a heavy timber from the wall of their cell on the second floor of the court-house. Then they used the timber as a battering ram and pounded a hole in the cell wall of plaster and wood.

Sheriff Tommy Walker said Harold Wilson, 40, the smallest of the trio, crawled through the hole, tore up an iron stove in an adjacent room and used a piece of the metal to jimmy three doors to get to the sheriff's office. Then he got the cell keys, returned and released his companions.

Walker said he was informed a 1954 Ford, apparently driven by an accomplice, was waiting outside the jail.

A fourth prisoner in the cell, Luther Webb, refused to accompany the escapees. They sought to force Webb to accompany them, but he fought back and warned them he would notify officers.

Sheriff Walker said Webb told him he believed the men were headed for the rugged area in the vicinity of Grove, Okla., near Grand Lake.

Wilson had been in jail since Dec. 8 when his bond was revoked on two charges of felonious assault at Reeds Springs.

The other two were Thurman Kenner, 36, Galena, Mo., who was serving a sentence for forcible rape, and Harold Parker, 41, no permanent address, held for trial in a burglary at Elm Springs, Mo.

Sheriff Walker said the four were in the one cell and that no night guard was on duty.

May Restore City License Registration

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval

E. Faubus said today the Arkansas Municipal League may seek restoration of city automobile licenses if the Legislature fails to increase state highway revenues.

Any additional highway revenue through higher taxes would give municipalities an increase in turn-back for maintenance of city streets.

The 1957 Legislature gave the cities a larger share of highway revenues but revoked the authority of municipalities to levy auto license fees.

The Arkansas Highway Commission has said it needs about 77 million dollars more a year to match all available federal road funds.

Faubus said today he did not know whether the Legislature would pass any new highway taxes. He previously had said the state should match all federal funds available either through additional taxation or a new highway bond issue.

The person who's willing to admit he's all wrong is usually all right.

Except The LORD Build The HOUSE They Labor In Vain That Build It

Why Compromise

—when the road to happiness offers so much? There are only two marked ways...one leads to happiness—the other to oblivion. One might lead to Heaven—the other to hell. But why despair when the going gets rough, when you have a decision to make? This may be the true measure God uses to separate the good from the bad; the chaff from the wheat; men of strength and character from those with none. Why compromise with oblivion staring you in the face? It is an unexaggerated testimonial of weakness. One may lose the bird in the hand; lose all the God-given opportunities for service and most of all, your own soul. Maybe you still have time to come to church and let it help you decide the direction to go.

Cotton Maid Really Dons Cotton Clothing

NEW YORK (AP)—The "1959 Maid of Cotton" believes in wearing it, in full measure. No scanty attire for her, she said today, whatever the texture.

"I do not approve of displaying my body in front of the public," the 20-year-old Stillwater, Okla., beauty, Malinda Diggs Berry, told a news conference. She said she didn't mean to be critical of other girls who were willing to parade in a minimum of clothing, but that for her, there'll be no cheesecake or bathing suit public poses.

"I'm more or less prudish," she said. "I was reared very Southern and very strictly." She won the "Maid of Cotton" contest in Memphis Dec. 30. Miss Berry is 5 feet 6, weighs 125 and has light brown hair and blue eyes. She appeared in a white cotton lace, short formal dress.

Unique in the impersonal course of U. S. Post Office Department procedure is the thoughtful restoration of a beautiful old home as the Martinville Post Office. Also preserved with loving hands is the old Court House where records and land grants of Spanish and French colonial outposts, even as far as Haiti and the West Indies, can be traced back to 1700 and verified.

One mile out of town, Louisiana has contributed to the legend by establishing Longfellow-Evangeline State Park. From the authentic Craft Shop at the entrance, roads lead through wide meadows to the Acadian House Museum, reputed home of Louis Arceveaux, prototype of the "Gabriel" in the poem. Most interesting of the treasured pieces in this 1765 home is a high, curved pigeon-toed rocking chair that, despite its appearance, won't tip over backwards because it was conceived on the principle of the Tower of Pisa. Made 150 years ago of cypress and pine, there is a built-in cupboard underneath for snuff and pipes. Today visitors cry it out as a "wishing chair."

On south is New Iberia, famed for its Sugar Cane Festival and for "The Shadows." This stately antebellum home, open on an admission basis, is in the heart of the business district. A few steps from the street, and the lush growth not only screens out traffic but transports you back to the plantation era.

Jungle Beauty
Avery Island and its Jungle Gardens is a seven mile side trip from New Iberia. The $1.37 bridge toll and admission does not seem exorbitant for the 44 miles of roads that wind through incredibly beautiful gardens of flowers, shrubs and trees gathered from every hemisphere. Highlights include Bird City, a noisy community where hundreds of snowy egrets perch on a framework above the water; a pool where alligators eye you with complacency; dense forests of Chinese timber bamboo, whose hollow tubes grow 50 to 60 feet high; and the Temple of Buddha in the Chinese Garden where

Diphtheria Outbreak in Mississippi

COLLINS, Miss. (AP)—Parental apathy toward diphtheria immunization has resulted in an outbreak of the disease in south central Mississippi, the State Board of Health warned today.

Dr. Dorward Blakey, director of preventable disease control in the State Board of Health, was in Collins this week to direct large-scale control measures in Covington and surrounding counties.

"Two deaths from diphtheria have been reported in Covington County and a Negro high school has been closed as a result."

Dr. Blakey blamed complacency of parents toward immunizing their children as the major cause of the outbreak of diphtheria in the area.

Health Department records show that until November, the total number of diphtheria cases remained at unusually low levels.

Dr. Blakey said because of this, "thousands of parents ignored public health appeals to immunize their children."

"But any sense of complacency was rudely broken by the explosive outbreak of the disease in Simpson County before Thanksgiving."

Cites NAACP for Aid to Negroes

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Excluding the church, the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People has done more for Negroes than any other organization in the world, J. Ernest Wilkins, Negro member of the President's Civil Rights Commission, says.

He was the principal speaker at an NAACP-sponsored Emancipation Day program yesterday.

Although the emancipation proclamation was signed long ago, "emancipation was not freedom," Wilkins said.

The proclamation, he said, was "merely a first stage in the long, tedious and many times discouraging struggle to achieve it."

"You never achieve anything by Harris Hunt, 7, was listed in a satisfactory condition, and the wife and mother was listed in a fair condition. All were taken to Breckenridge Hospital."

The Department of Public Safety, reporting the accident, said the Hunts were en route to Brooks Field, San Antonio, after attending the Cotton Bowl game yesterday in Dallas.

The crashed plane, which DFS said apparently ran out of gasoline, was a four-place craft.

The crash occurred on the Phillips ranch, 12 miles west of Kyle, Tex.

The Hunts formerly lived at Blytheville, Ark.

DOROTHY DIX

Four-Sided Triangle Is Far From Novelty

Dear Dorothy Dix:
We are sadly in need of advice. I'm a married woman of 24 with two children. George is a married man of 28 with three children. We are very much in love and he wants to marry me. Neither my husband nor his wife suspect anything and our love has lasted too long for it to be called infatuation. We realize that if we are divorced our spouses will take the children. I don't want to give mine up but he doesn't care. My husband is a wonderful man and I hate to hurt him. George's wife, too, is a fine woman. George and I can't do without each other. How can we solve this gundangle? — Olga R.

Dear Olga: In case you think your case is unique, it crops up in my mail at least a few dozen times a week. In fact, I'm sure this will be read by a score or more people who will exclaim, "Oh, she used my letter. Of course, the names are changed but I know it's mine." The answer, too, is S. P. (Army lingo for "standard operating procedure"). If you go ahead with the romantic (you think) development of your story, you'll reap nothing but misery — for yourselves, your spouses and children. You'll bring unhappiness to nine lives. If you elect to work the problem out with honor, it will mean brief unhappiness for two. Take your choice.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I go around with the best kids in my class but have found out that many of the nicest boys have the dirtiest minds. They're outwardly respectable and never get into trouble but their ideas are bad. What can I do to get them to stop or is it just a stage they are going through? — Just a Pal.

Dear Pal: How do you know what goes on in their minds? If they say nasty things to you, it's easy enough to walk away or tell them you're not interested in their type of conversation. They are going through the experimental stage that affects most teenagers. If they have no listeners, their talk will change.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I don't think my mother likes me any more because she's always comparing me to my older sisters. Every time I do anything wrong she says, "Babe (my older sister) never did that." What can I do? I'm 13. — Linda.

Dear Linda: You are going through the 13-year-old blues and you have a tendency to exaggerate things. Mom is wrong to make comparisons between her children but she does not mean to imply that she doesn't love you. Get that idea right out of your head. Realize that parents are people, too, and can make mistakes, and do your best to please her.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
The boy I love flitted me for another girl. Now I feel like treating other boys in the same way. You know: lead them on, break their hearts and toss them away. Don't you think this is a good idea? — Lonely Lou

Dear Lou: It's a perfectly frightful idea. And it will boomerang right back at you. Once you have the reputation of being a heart-breaker, boys — all boys — will avoid you like the plague. This is the normal teen-age pattern; boy meets girl, girl gets boy, boy jills girl and girl picks up the pieces of her heart, mends them with tape and gets going for another round, hoping this time her luck will be better.

President Approves New 49 Star Flag

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower gave final approval today to a new 49-star American flag. But the design, with a 49th star for Alaska, still was kept secret.

The approval was given at a meeting of the President and four Army Quartermaster Corps representatives at Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm.

The new flag will be unveiled at a White House ceremony at noon Saturday. The President also will issue a proclamation making Alaska a state.

The Rotary Club held its regular weekly meeting at the Broadway Hotel Tuesday noon. Thirty eight members and guest were present.

Dr. Wayne Jordan was program chairman and delivered the address. His talk was in line with the National Children's Health Week.

Dr. Jordan, a doctor of dentistry, devoted his time to the discussion to the care and health of the mouth and teeth.

He stated that a large number of people neglect their teeth and have to have some artificial replacement before they reach the age of 37 years. His theme was instructive and educational.

Dr. Henry Crawley, Kilgore, Texas was visiting Rotarian. Gately Daniel, Washington, D. C. was a guest of his father N. N. Daniel.

Darrell Marsh was a guest to Dr. L. J. Harrel and Dr. H. R. Pollock, Oklahoma City was guest of Horace Jones.

Miss Phillips Complimented Miss Margaret Lecee Phillips, bride-elect of Robert Franklin Burnsides of El Dorado, was feted with a personal shower given by Mrs. Ed Smith and Miss Claudette Smith at their home on Monday evening.

The honoree was given a white carnation corsage by her hostesses. Her lovely gifts, which she opened and displayed were arranged on a table. Miss Rita Warren dispensed hospitalities in the living room.

A floor length ruffled pink tulle cloth over pink taffeta covered the dining table centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and four white twisted candles. Mrs. David Hanning served the pink cake topped with miniature colonial posts under which were embossed bells and roses. Placed on top was a disk upon which was placed a bride doll holding a French lace umbrella.

Guests included Mrs. Charles Scott, Miss Mary Jewelle Herring, Mrs. Freeman Ligon, Mrs. Roland Culp of Des Arc, Mrs. Johnny Stark of Little Rock, Mrs. Clifton Yancey, Mrs. Arvin Jones, Miss Phela Nell Britt, Mrs. Bobby McBrayer, Miss Marilyn Lee, Miss
